PROFILE

Kim Davis joined Quest Site Solutions as a Director in 2020. Her prior experience includes working as a Principal with McCallum Sweeney Consulting. She provides site selection, incentive negotiation, and economic development consulting services to a variety of companies and organizations worldwide.

Kim brings over 20 years of location consulting and economic development experience to Quest's site selection clients. The services that she delivers include detailed property and infrastructure evaluations, geographic information systems (GIS) analysis, demographics and labor analysis, financial evaluations, and incentive negotiations. Current and past site selection experience includes projects in the manufacturing, headquarters, and distribution sectors.

Kim also leverages her site selection skills and knowledge to assist economic development entities in preparing for corporate investment projects. These services include designing and implementing site readiness programs, conducting property portfolio assessments, and strategic planning.
